For example, a mobile device used for e-commerce such as a prepaid wireless device might receive e-commerce information related to the transaction from one system while another system might simply provide the user with weather related information or provide the user with a value added coupon for a previously purchased item. In these types of situations, it may not be possible to correlate data received from one system with data received from another system. Thus, there is a need to bridge the gap between the systems to provide a common vocabulary to better utilize data and utilize data received from disparate systems.Q: Transform Long Text to Wide Format I've been asked to resolve the following report layout: My current output is: As you can see, the last column has to be "diverged" to keep the page vertically centered. Is there any way to achieve this without using table? A: It isn't really wide format but could you use HTML/CSS to keep the columns aligned? I would just add a class to the first div that has a width set to 100% Then set a width to the second div. I wouldn't use tables if not necessary. The present invention relates to semiconductor processing, and more particularly, to methods for attaching a semiconductor to a second semiconductor in manufacturing a semiconductor device. Continued advances in integrated circuit (IC) technology have led to thinner and more complex semiconductor processes. In particular, the increase in the number and the complexity of the components of an IC has led to a corresponding increase
